Palm Students Visit Law Courts

Palm Institute students who are taking various courses in law paid a visit to the Court Complex, Accra to observe real court proceedings and learn about the workings of the judicial arm of government. They were led by one of our faculty members; Mr. Jerry John Asiedu, ESQ. The students were given a warm reception by the Court Manager. In all, the students observed proceedings in three different courts; Criminal Court 4, Commercial Court 10, and General Jurisdiction 6, where they heard about 30 real life cases. ### End of Year Appeal

One hundred and twenty-eight (128) lives have been transformed since 2006 through the NAPE Foundation Scholarship Fund. This was achieved with the support of individuals around the world who believe in contributing to higher education in Ghana and supporting students to achieve their dreams.

Our rural outreach has shown there are thousands of brilliant students who are unable to pursue tertiary education in Ghana. We believe with your support, we can provide tuition for at least 20 of these students in September 2017 at Palm Institute. Read more here.
